The Egyptian government is limiting electricity use with daily power cutbacks nationwide, putting people's economic and social rights at risk. The cuts appear to last longer in rural areas, which have higher poverty rates, and have left many people without power amid soaring. Since mid-July 2023, Egypt has been experiencing a power outage crisis amid increasing temperatures resulting from climate change and increasing consumption rates in light of the population increase of about 105 million citizens, in addition to other imbalances in the energy sector. Mahmoud Esmat: We are keen to attract new investments to benefit from modern technologies in research, development, and renewable energy. Amid soaring summer temperatures of between 40C and 50C, power cuts are lasting for around six hours.
