Overview

If you've received an offer for "free solar panels," it could be a scam. Always look for businesses you can trust - like Accredited Businesses using the BBB Seal. Someone contacts you through email, phone, social media, or even in person pretending to be a solar company. While reputable companies can help you save money with clean or solar energy improvements, scammers offer more than they can deliver. Someone contacts you. In the worst cases, homeowners have been left making payments on overpriced systems that don't work, with little to no support from the installation company that put the panels on their roof. To avoid getting scammed, you need to know what to look out for and when to walk away. Here's our guide to. While rooftop solar panels are becoming increasingly ubiquitous in homes throughout the United States, the industry also has a more sinister side: a seemingly widespread problem of fraudulent business practices that has cast a shadow over many solar panel companies.
